

10th European Quality Assurance Forum

19–21 November 2015

Taking stock and looking forward

Call for contributions

Deadline 3 August 2015

INTRODUCTION

We are pleased to announce that ENQA, ESU, EUA and EURASHE will organise the 10th European Quality Assurance Forum (EQAF), hosted by the Quality Assurance Agency and UCL Institute of Education, London, UK, from 19 to 21 November 2015.

Through a mix of plenary and parallel sessions, the 2015 EQAF, entitled “Taking stock and looking forward”, will combine presentations of current developments in quality assurance (QA) with discussions on research, policy and practice that will take place in paper sessions and workshops.

2015 marks not only the 10th anniversary of EQAF, but also 10 years since the introduction of the ESG and five years since the formal launch of the European Higher Education Area (EHEA). With the adoption of the revised ESG in May 2015, this year presents an ideal moment to take stock of the status of European QA policies and assess their impact on all stakeholders. The Forum will examine QA in the EHEA from a variety of perspectives and explore the ways in which concrete practices in institutions and agencies reflect European level policies.

PARTICIPANTS

EQAF provides a platform for discussion, professional development and exchange of experiences among the main stakeholders in QA. Specifically, the forum will be of interest to rectors and vice-rectors responsible for QA, QA officers in higher education institutions, students, QA agency staff and researchers working on higher education or the QA field.

CALL FOR PAPERS AND WORKSHOPS

We invite contributions from QA practitioners in higher education institutions and quality assurance agencies, students, and researchers in the field. EQAF is an excellent opportunity to present current practice or research and test new ideas, and to elicit feedback from colleagues and stakeholders. All contributions are expected to seek to stimulate a discussion with the participants, thus enhancing peer-learning.

The deadline to submit all contributions is 3 August 2015. Proposals received after this date will not be considered.

Two types of contributions are being sought: paper and workshop proposals.

We will especially welcome paper and workshop proposals that reflect how institutions and agencies are adapting to the new ESG. We also welcome proposals that present different perspectives (e.g. a case study developed jointly by a university and a QA agency) and strongly encourage cooperation with students when preparing proposals.

The papers and workshops will be presented and discussed during parallel sessions, which, it is estimated, will be attended by 20 – 40 participants.

Please note that participants will be free to select which workshop or paper session to attend based on the abstracts, which will be included on the EQAF website and in the programme booklet. Thus, we encourage all contributors to pay special attention to their abstracts, which must be concise, correspond to the content of their contribution and appeal to the participants. The organisers reserve the right to amend abstracts in order to ensure that they accurately reflect the content of the paper or workshop session.

Giving explicit titles of a reasonable length to papers and workshops may also contribute to capturing the attention of a wider audience.

1. Paper sessions

This type of contribution will focus on one of the following:

- a) Research – an analysis of concepts or data related to quality assurance with discussion of the implications for policy or practice
- b) Policy – a case study of a particular policy approach with consideration of implications for practice or transferability to other contexts
- c) Practice – a case study of quality assurance practices at institutional, national or European level, analysing the success factors, challenges encountered and possible failures.

The papers are expected to share and discuss experiences in a self-reflective and critical way or to test ideas for new quality assurance initiatives and receive feedback from participants.

The papers will be presented during 45-minute-long parallel sessions. The presentation of the paper, which should last no more than 20 minutes, will be followed by a discussion. The author(s) should identify the lessons to be learnt from the session and also have the option to provide questions for discussion with the audience at the conclusion of the paper.

Formal requirements

A paper proposal should:

- Identify the author(s), and, in the case of co-authored papers, indicate who will be responsible for presenting the paper at the Forum
- Include the authors' short bios (up to 150 words) to be used for introducing them at the presentation
- Be a fully written paper of no more than 3000 words (excluding references)
- Be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 150 words
- Identify whether the paper is research, policy or practice based
- Provide two or three intended learning outcomes for the session

Evaluation criteria

The papers will be assessed by members of the EQAF Steering Committee on the basis of the following criteria:

- The paper has a clear focus that will be of interest to the participants.
- The argument, development, and structure are logical, coherent and understandable.

- The paper provides a substantial basis for discussion and has the potential to sustain a lively discussion.
- Papers presenting case examples are critical and self-reflective and identify clearly the success and obstacles in implementation.
- No proposal for commercial purposes will be accepted.

2. Workshops

Workshops will focus on providing participants with a structured background on a specific topic or provide hands-on practical advice on how to implement or use a specific QA tool. The workshop will be led by the facilitator(s) in a 90-minute parallel session. Workshops should not be dedicated to one or several paper-like presentations: the focus should be on participant activity rather than presentation from the workshop facilitator(s).

Formal requirements

A workshop proposal should:

- Identify the facilitator(s)
- Identify the organisation of the facilitator(s)
- Identify the target audience for the workshop
- Explain the main objectives
- Explain the activity to be carried out during the workshop
- Provide two or three intended learning outcomes for the session
- Specify any audio-visual requirements
- Be no more than two A4 pages
- Be accompanied by an abstract of no more than 150 words

Evaluation criteria

The workshop proposals will be assessed by members of the EQAF Steering Committee on the basis of the following criteria:

- The level and type of participant activity: workshops should aim to sustain a lively debate with and the engagement of the audience in a hands-on activity.
- The topic and objectives of the workshop and their relevance to QA.
- Description of how the workshop will be run (activities proposed, how realistic it is to carry them out in the given timeframe, methodology to ensure participation from the audience...).
- No proposal for commercial purposes will be accepted.

Any supplementary documentation may be annexed. For instance, a workshop proposal on comparing different kinds of teaching evaluation questionnaires could include the questionnaires that will be discussed during the workshop.

We strongly encourage the workshop facilitators to prepare and handle the timing of their activities carefully. They should also be prepared to adapt to the number of participants in the audience (e.g. adapt the number of sub-groups in case attendance is below or beyond expectations).

PROCEDURE

All proposals should be submitted using the forms attached to this call, in Word format, by 3 August 2015 to QAForum@eua.be. Please do not send a hard copy or a PDF file.

All contributions will be reviewed by the EQAF Steering Committee. The authors will be informed in September if their contribution has been selected for presentation at EQAF. Selected proposals may receive comments on how the proposal should be amended before presentation. Please note that due to limited resources no comments can be provided to unsuccessful proposals.

Unless the author indicates otherwise, all selected papers will be posted on the EQAF website after the event and the page will be assigned an ISSN number.

IMPORTANT: If you have submitted a paper or workshop proposal, please do not register for the event online until the results of the selection process have been announced. Each selected paper and workshop at EQAF 2015 will benefit from one reduced fee, which will be applied through a special registration process.

All correspondence with authors will be by e-mail.

In order to assist contributors, frequently asked questions are included as an annex to this call for contributions.

CALENDAR

3 August 2015: All elements of the proposal must be submitted in Word format using the forms attached to this call to QAForum@eua.be. Proposals received after this date will not be considered. Incomplete proposals will not be reviewed.

September 2015: Notification of acceptance or rejection will be sent by e-mail to all authors. Accepted proposals will be accompanied by comments.

October 2015: Abstracts of accepted proposals will be published on the Forum website. Information regarding the day and time of sessions at the Forum will be provided closer to the event.

19-21 November 2015: the 10th European Quality Assurance Forum takes place in London, UK, hosted by the Quality Assurance Agency and UCL Institute of Education.

End November 2015: Full text of presented papers and PowerPoint presentations from workshops will be posted on the EQAF website and allocated an ISSN number.

EQAF STEERING COMMITTEE

ENQA:	Caty Duykaerts and Maria Kelo
ESU:	Dan Derricott (chair) and Blazhe Todorovski
EUA:	Tia Loukkola and Oliver Vettori
EURASHE:	Paul Garré and Barbara Michalk

Annex 1: FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS (FAQ)

This informal annex aims at providing indicative answers to frequently asked questions related to the EQAF call for contributions.

1. Are abstracts enough in themselves for a paper to be taken into account in the selection procedure?

Answer: Abstracts alone are not enough. The formal requirements for either a paper or a workshop proposal are listed under the sections "Paper sessions" and "Workshops" of the call for contributions. If you wish to submit a paper proposal, it must be a fully written paper of no more than 3000 words (references excluded), accompanied by an abstract of up to 150 words.

2. I would like to present the QA system in place in my institution. Should I choose to submit a paper or a workshop?

Answer: Workshops are based on interactivity with the audience (e.g., on the use of specific QA tools in different national and institutional contexts), and should not consist of one or a series of paper-like presentations. If you wish to collect feedback from other institutional contexts on, for example, a tool that you would like to implement within your institution, a workshop might be a good solution. Please be aware that a workshop lasts twice as long as a paper session and you will have to propose activities and sustain a lively discussion with your audience for 90 minutes.

If you wish to present a paper, please bear in mind that, if selected, your paper presentation should provide a substantial basis for sustaining a lively discussion among the audience. The paper should therefore be self-reflective and provide a basis for broadening perspectives beyond your own institutional approach.

3. May I co-author a paper with someone from outside my institution?

Answer: Proposals submitted jointly by two or several authors are most welcome. You are free to co-author it either with someone from your institution or someone from another institution/organisation. As an example, a joint paper presenting a reform from both points of view of a QA agency and of an institution, or on a QA procedure from the perspective of an institution and its students, would be highly welcome and of interest to the audience of the Forum.

4. Can authors selected under the call for contributions be funded to participate in EQAF?

Answer: The EQAF organisers do not fund participation. Should a proposal of contribution be accepted, the presenter's institution often covers the Forum fee as well as travel to the event. However, one reduced fee will be granted to each selected paper and workshop at EQAF 2015. This will be applied through a special registration process after the selection of papers and workshops is finalised.

5. I am based in an institution that is located outside Europe. May I still submit a proposal under the call for contributions?

Answer: Yes. Your proposal will be reviewed on the same basis and following the same criteria as other proposals (see call for contributions for the list of evaluation criteria for each category of proposal). Please also consider the answer to question 4 related to funding for attending EQAF.

6. I am a student. May I also participate in this call for contributions?

Answer: You are most welcome to submit a proposal. We strongly encourage student participation in EQAF.

7. I do not work in the higher education area but would like to submit a contribution on quality assurance as a transversal topic. Would that be possible?

Answer: It all depends on how your proposal will address quality assurance. EQAF specifically focuses on quality assurance in higher education and all proposals selected under the call for contributions should be related, in one way or another, to this specific field. It might therefore not be the right platform if you intend to discuss a generic quality assurance management tool.

8. Will all proposals selected under this call for contributions be published automatically?

Answer: After the Forum, the full text of all papers presented at the Forum and PowerPoint presentations from workshops will be published on the Forum website, unless the authors indicate otherwise. The webpage on which they are published will be assigned an ISSN number.

9. What must I do after my proposal is selected?

Answer: In September, you will be notified by email about whether your proposal has been accepted. This email will indicate how you should then proceed.

10. Are papers that have been already published elsewhere eligible under this call for contributions?

Answer: Yes. Please however indicate on your submission form where and when it was published. Your proposal should still fulfil the evaluation criteria as stated in the call for contributions, and be of relevance for the EQAF participants.

11. What is the evaluation procedure?

Answer: The evaluation procedure works as follows: each proposal is reviewed by two different reviewers from different backgrounds, taking into account potential conflicts of interest and imperatives of impartiality. Each reviewer will give a score according to a standard scale for grading, and provide comments if he/she so wishes. The EQAF Steering Committee decides on the final selection based on scores given to contributions and the maximum number of proposals to be selected for each type of contribution.

12. Besides the evaluation criteria as announced in the call for contributions, are there other criteria that I should be aware of?

Answer: All proposals that fulfil the formal requirements as stated in the call for contributions will be reviewed according to the evaluation criteria. In addition, as is usual practice in academia, the reviewers will not evaluate any proposal that presents serious distortions to the basic principles for original contributions, i.e. papers with examples of plagiarism or copyright issues.

13. Will the organisers collect feedback from participants about my session?

Answer: The organisers do not collect feedback from participants about individual paper/workshop sessions. However, the presenters/facilitators are free to collect feedback from the participants of their session themselves.

This document tries to offer general answers to most frequently asked questions in order to clarify generic requests.

Should you have any further questions related to the call for contributions, please contact QAForum@eua.be.